

FOOTBALL

Washington will play no game this coming Saturday, having closed its season with the Tiger game. Every other Conference team will play.

The Kansas Aggies are to meet Washburn, which held Kansas to a close score two weeks ago. Nebraska meets Iowa State in what is expected to be one of the hardest-fought games of the season. Both have crushed Ames.

Drake plays Ames. Last week, the Drake Bulldogs, using subs only, beat the State Teachers College team, 14 to 3. Ames was smothered by Iowa, 26 to 6.

Finally, Missouri meets Kansas at Lawrence in the annual game. Kansas this season has whipped William Jewell, 48 to 2; Drake, 33 to 7; the Kansas Aggies, 27 to 0; College of Emporia, 7 to 0, and Washburn, 20 to 14. The Jayhawkers got a tie with Oklahoma, 16 to 16, and lost to the Cornhuskers 35 to 0.

Every Tiger Out On Field Yesterday.

Practice yesterday began early, about 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon. It ended early, too, for the players were leaving the gymnasium, fully clothed, before 6 o'clock.

Every Tiger was out on the field in uniform, an unusual thing, according to Prof. C. L. Brewer. Somebody or other has been absent every practice since the Ames game, nearly four weeks ago. First it was both Graves and Shepard. The last few days, it has been Shepard.

The fact that every Tiger was able to report yesterday leads to the belief that every player on the squad will be in a condition to enter the Kansas game Saturday, provided he is needed.

Kansas Team Really In Good Condition.

And it is more than likely that the Tigers' very best line-up will be needed. The Kansans, although reported badly battered by the Nebraska game, are recovering and will present the same array against the Tigers that they did against the Cornhuskers.

Witness the following communication from the Kansas camp:

Lawrence, Kan., Nov. 19.—(special to The Missourian.) Every member of the Jayhawker squad survived the Nebraska disaster without injury and Coaches Wheaton and Bond have started their hunt for Tiger meat. A light practice Monday took the stiffness out of the Kansans and signal practice yesterday afternoon put the men in condition for rough scrimmage today. Bert Kennedy's Haskell Indians probably will scrimmage with the Kansans.

The confidence which prevailed before the Sunflower camp before the Nebraska game has disappeared entirely and Kansas rooters fear Missouri. Missouri has come back from a bad beginning while Kansas seems to have gone stale. A close battle is expected and, according to the advance seat sale, more than ten thousand persons will see the game.

McCook Field Fixed To Hold Big Crowd.

McCook Field has been enlarged and remodeled to accommodate the crowd. Ten thousand dollars had been received from tickets yesterday, and every mail brings more orders. The first rally before the Tiger game was held Monday night, when a big crowd of students paraded the streets until after midnight predicting the blacking of the Tiger's eye.

The same line-up which tried to stop Nebraska probably will be Wheaton's offering against Missouri, Captain Detwiler, Gray and Stryker will be the backfield, with Wood, the 127-pound star, at quarter. In the line will be Keeling, center; James and Strother, guards; Groft and Burton, tackles, and Reber and Coolidge, ends. Strother will punt for Kansas. If he shows the same form he had against Nebraska, Kansas will hold her own in that department against the Tigers.

MISSOURI'S 1914 FOOTBALL TIGERS

James Ashton Clay, Missouri's captain, is playing his third and last year on the Tiger team. "Liz" weighs 185 pounds, stands an even 6 feet tall and is 21 years old. He is a senior in the College of Arts and Science, having received his early football training on the local high school team. "Liz" is probably the best-lined and most popular Tiger that ever stepped on Rollins Field. He also is one of the best students in the senior class, having at one time competed for a Rhodes scholarship. Last year he played guard. This year he has been shifted tackle.

Henry Robinson Clay, Jr., is a brother of the captain and is playing his first year with the Varsity. He weighs 160, stands 5 feet 9 and 1/2 inches old. "H" is a junior in the College of Arts and Science and, like his brother, is a good student. He is from Pittsburg, Mo., where he played his first year he really has tried out for the team here. He plays a hard defensive game at end and is a good defensive player.

DeWitt Clinton Collins, the first-string quarterback, comes from Lansing, Mich., where he gained some experience on the high school team. "Clint" is playing his second year on the Varsity, weighs 153, stands 5 feet 9 and 1/2 inches old. He will graduate from the School of Journalism next year. Last year he understudied McWilliams, who piloted the Tigers to victory over Kansas. Collins is the surest, safest tackler on the team. He hasn't missed a try this year.

Hugo Drumm, guard, is a Columbia boy, having played on the local high school team. He weighs 175, stands 5 feet 11 and 1/2 inches old. "Bass" or "Big" is so-called to distinguish him from his younger brother, "Snare" or "Little." He is a senior in the College of Agriculture, and "Bass" is the most powerful man on the squad, thought not so fast as some of the other big men. He won his "M" in track last spring, tying with the weights.

Manuel Gayman Drumm, guard, almost answers to the description of his blither brother. He weighs 170, stands 6 feet and is 21 years old. "Snare" also is a senior in the College of Agriculture and is playing his first season with the Tigers. Of late, he has forced himself into notice through his aggressiveness and hard work. He won his "M" in basketball last year.

William Caldwell Dunkel, fullback, began playing football on his home high school team at Springfield, Mo. "Bill" weighs 160, stands 5 feet 11 and 1/2 inches old. This is his third season with the Tigers. He graduates from the College of Agriculture next spring. "Bill" has been described as being all heart and nerve. Moreover, he is willing to work and lift the line harder than anybody on the squad.

David Berger Graves, halfback, is from Montgomery City, Mo., in whose high school he distinguished himself athletically. "Tohy" weighs 170, stands 5 feet 9 and 1/2 inches old. He is a sophomore in the College of Arts and Science and is playing his first season as a Tiger. "Tohy" is a brother of "Tubby" Graves, a Tiger star of 1908, 1909 and 1910, who is now coaching at the University of Alabama. The present Missouri Graves is a good defensive player and punter. He was injured in the Ames game and has been laid up ever since.

Jesse Lee Groves, Jr., tackle, is a brother of Dinwiddie Groves, last year's tackle. He hails from Dover, Mo., and had no previous football experience. "Snooty" weighs 180, stands 5 feet 11 and 1/2 inches old. He is a junior in the College of Arts and Science and is playing his first year with the Tigers. This year "Snooty" has made the most improvement of any man on the squad, having come from an uncertain scrub into a regular of the water. He is getting to be a fighter.

Robert McGhee Graham, center, weighs 150, stands 5 feet 7 and 1/2 inches old. He is from Lincoln, Mo., where he played on the high school team. "Punches" is a senior in the College of Agriculture, playing his first year on the Varsity. His good nature and aggressiveness have earned him the position of second-string center, although he has been badly handled capped by a "game" knee.

Frank Willard Herndon, tackle, weighs 175, stands 5 feet 10 and 1/2 inches old. His home address is Lebanon, Mo., and his "prep" experience was with the Holla Miners. This is his second year with the Varsity, although he is a senior in the School of Law. Herndon, who played last year, is a powerful tackle, not brilliant, but safe and reliable.

Harry S. Lansing, center, is one of the brilliant new men on the Tiger defense. He was on the scrum in 1912, but was out of school last year. This is his first year on the Varsity. He is from Columbia, weighs 152, stands 5 feet 8 and 1/2 inches old, being a junior in the College of Arts and Science. In the Kansas game, Lansing will go up against a weight handicap of nearly 50 pounds.

Floyd Herschell Lake, halfback, is clearly noted as the man who scored three touchdowns against Ames last year, registering the only victory the Tigers ever have had over the Iowa legions. He is a shifty open-field runner. "Sully" weighs 147, stands 5 feet 8 and 1/2 inches old. He is a senior in the School of Law, playing his third year as a Tiger. Lake's home is in St. Joseph and he gained his "prep" football experience by way of William Jewell College. He holds an "M" in track.

Lon Hall La Rue, end, came from Marshall, Mo., without any football experience and has earned a place with the Tigers through faithful hard work. This is his second year on the team. "Larry" is a senior in the College of Agriculture, weighs 155, stands 5 feet 10 and 1/2 inches old. He is playing a safe, conservative, reliable game at end. La Rue has a baseball "M."

Max Emmett Miller, halfback, is a Columbia boy who played a bit on the Columbia High School team. "Rabbit" is the lightest man on the Tiger squad, weighing only 137 pounds. He stands 5 feet 6 and 1/2 inches old. This is his first year as a Tiger, although he is a senior in the College of Agriculture. "Rabbit" is about the quickest starting backfield man the Tigers have. He has come to the front rapidly in the last few games.

William Stanley Morgenthaler, guard, is a man who has been developed this year from last year's scrubs. He is a reliable guard, weighing 167 and standing 5 feet 10. He is 22 years old. Morgenthaler's address is 1111 S. Columbia and his experience is on the Columbia High School team. He is a junior in the College of Arts and Science, playing his first year as a Tiger.

William Columbus Preston, guard, weighs 168, stands 5 feet 11 and 1/2 inches old. He hails from Lockwood, Mo., where he played on the high school team. Preston is a sophomore in the College of Arts and Science, playing his first season with the Varsity. He is a good average player, who has progressed from the scrubs.

Richard Boyden Rutledge, first-string quarterback, is a Columbia youngster who learned some football at the local high school. He weighs 153, stands 5 feet 7 and 1/2 inches old. "Rut" is a sophomore in the College of Arts and Science, playing his first season with the Tigers. He is the scrappy Irishman of the team, always aggressive.

Jacob Speelman, end, is a foreigner, hailing from Grand Rapids, Mich., where he picked up the rudiments at high school. "Jake" weighs 172, stands 5 feet 11 1/2 inches and is 22 years old. He is a junior in the School of Medicine, working his second year on the Varsity. Speelman very probably is All-Missouri Valley timber having a reputation for playing just as hard as he has to, rising superior to the occasion when a big game is on. He starred in last year's Kansas game. "Jake" holds a basketball "M."

Paul Howe Shepard, halfback, is one of the veterans, playing his last year. His punting ability has kept the ball away from Missouri's goal time and again when scores were threatened. "Shep" weighs 168, stands 5 feet 11, is 22 years old, gives Chicago, Ill., as his home, played no "prep" football and is a junior in the College of Agriculture. Last year "Shep" was halfback on the All-Missouri Valley team. He is a good hand at intercepting forward passes. "Shep" won an "M" in track.

Philip Sidney Savage, halfback, is a man to whom too many bouquets can not be handed this year. He has come up from a substitute scrub into mighty good Varsity material, excelling in line plunges. "Phil" is a hard worker, weighs 153, stands 5 feet 9 1/2, is 21 years old, graduates from the School of Engineering next spring, is playing his first year on the team and comes from St. Louis, where he played on the Selden High School team.

Clifford Daniel VanDyne, guard, weighs 178, stands 6 feet, is 18 years old and registers as a sophomore in the College of Arts and Science. This is his first year with the Tigers. He comes from Sedalia, Mo., where he learned some football in high school. Van is the youngest man on the team, but is coming fast and is expected to hold a regular job next season.

Charles Roberts Woody, fullback, is called "Ozark" because he comes from Ozark, Mo., where his earlier football experience was gained. He weighs 155, stands 5 feet 8 and 1/2 inches old. He is a junior in the College of Agriculture, playing his first season with the Varsity. Woody's defensive work is good. On offense, he is one of the best blockers on the team. He is a hard worker, weighs 155, stands 5 feet 8 and 1/2 inches old. He is a junior in the College of Agriculture, playing his first season with the Varsity. Woody's defensive work is good. On offense, he is one of the best blockers on the team.

Grant Wyatt, Jr., second-string quarterback, learned football on his home high school team at Webster Groves, Mo. He weighs 140, stands 5 feet 11 and 1/2 inches old, being registered as a sophomore in the College of Arts and Science. This is his first year with the Varsity. Wyatt is young, but is learning rapidly.

Lester Bascom Wilkoff, halfback, has come into his own the last few weeks. Always good in the defense, he is becoming a good hand at carrying the ball, having starred in the Drake and Washington games. "Bottles" weighs 160, stands 5 feet 10, is 21 years old, comes from Chillicothe, where he played on the high school team, and is a senior in the School of Education, being with the Varsity for the first time this year. Wilkoff also plays baseball.

Wentworth Wilder, fullback, is a brother of Allen R. Wilder, a former Tiger star. He comes from St. Louis, where he learned some football on the Selden High School team. Wilder weighs 168, stands 5 feet 11 and 1/2 inches old, being a junior in the School of Education. His good kicking and general defensive work have earned him his place on the third Tiger backfield.
